They're decals. Like AB's flames.

The mixer (and the spots) were an early 12th Night present from the wabbit and the harpy.

Awww, and it's photogenic, too! (Yes, I'm awake now. I've been awake for, oh, at least an hour. Two cups of coffee. Ah debauchery, how I love you.)

It was pretty wholesome debauchery, all things considered.

Never before have I intensely desired a stand mixer. I mean, there've been times one would be useful, but...I've never really wanted one.

Not like this.

Meringues undoubtedly deserve contemplating.

When they become reality, let me know, okay? I can contemplate the taste.

That's adorable. It's like Clark Kent, all unassuming and harmless and then wham it reveals its super-powers.

Since Holsteins are milk cows, will it only make tres leches cake?

(The cake is not a lie. The cake is love. =:~3)

(Oh, and also? Oatmeal cookies. Nom.)
